LOCATION!! LOCATION!! LOCATION!!

This proposed corner block is the most desired piece of real estate on a suburban street.

Corner block homes have many advantages; they have more access points, more opportunities for windows in the home, more spots for parking, and bigger gardens.

Plus, because the corner block is so open and versatile, it gives architects the opportunity to play with different architectural styles in the design stage.

All of that adds up to a higher quality of life, and potentially a higher resale value. No wonder building a house on a corner
